TITLE: “The Formation of the Physician-Patient Relationship”

FACULTY: The Honorable Marian P. Opala, Justice, Supreme Court of Oklahoma

Justice Opala began his legal career as assistant county attorney in Oklahoma County and held this position until 1956 when he entered private practice. He first served the Supreme Court of Oklahoma as a referee from 1960 to 1965. Later he was staff lawyer for Justice Rooney McInerney. For nine years Justice Opala directed the state’s court system as its first administrative director. He served as judge on the State Industrial Court when it was renamed the Workers’ Compensation Court. On November 21, 1978, the then-Governor, now OU President David Boren appointed him to the Supreme Court of Oklahoma. Since 1982, he has been retained for successive six year terms. He served as the court’s Chief Justice from January 1, 1991-December 31, 1992. He is the author of numerous legal papers, and he is an adjunct professor in three law schools: University of Oklahoma, Oklahoma City University, and the University of Tulsa. He is a frequent lecturer at various national judicial and legal education programs.
